

KBCULTURE

A SELECTIVE REVIEW OF THE PRODUCTS, PLACES, AND PERSPECTIVES CENTRAL TO KITCHEN AND BATH DESIGN

22 JANUARY 2015

Half + Half

The Mizu [that's 'water' in Japanese] basin conceals the drain beneath a scooped, slotted top panel. By Emo Design, it's a subtle, functional detail that alters the experience of washing up. The sink also comes in a rectangular format. scarabeoceramica.com

ABOUT THE EDITOR

G+ LESLIE CLAGETT

g+ Follow

Leslie Clagett is a seasoned yet passionate observer of the international kitchen and bath industries, and the founder of KBCULTURE.com. An editor at publications ranging from Arts + Architecture to Kitchens & Baths, she is also the author of The New City Home [The Taunton Press], among other books. Leslie has a tremendous respect for quality design and the people who labor in its pursuit; her discerning eye has been known to get a little misty in the presence of true beauty.

VIEW MY COMPLETE PROFILE

CONTACT KBCULTURE